

DEPARTMENT of ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION
1131 Harbor Bay Parkway
Alameda, CA 94502
(510) 567-6700
Fax (510) 337-9432

Attention: Swimmers/Bathers CRAB COVE Beach, Alameda

Recent experiences by visitors at CRAB COVE have led us to suspect that there are tiny organisms in the beach water that can cause a skin irritation called “swimmer’s itch.”

The skin at the feet and ankles may become irritated or itchy. Small red marks may appear. This rash is the only symptom. There are NO long-term health effects.

You are advised to limit contact with the beach water. If you do enter the water, rinse and towel dry thoroughly. If symptoms continue, consult a physician.

For further information please contact:

Alameda County Environmental Health

(510) 567-6706 www.acgov.org/aceh

San Francisco Estuary Institute (snails)

www.exoticsguide.org

Centers for Disease Control:

http://www.cdc.gov/ncidod/dpd/parasites/cercarialdermatitis/factsht_cercarialdermatitis.htm